NOT JUST A FACE-LIFT

15.11.2006

The redesign of the PLoS journals today is not just a facelift. They continue to have fresh ideas and unconventional approaches. A recent email said that we encourage authors who are fluent in languages other than English to submit translated versions of an article summary ... in other languages. Translations should be submitted as Supporting Information files labeled "Translation of the article summary (or entire article) into language XXX by author YYY".

That is a nice idea, showing another benefit of online journals, yea, yea.
