SCIENCE ELITE IN GERMANY

12.01.2007

Three German universities that have been elected into an excellence cluster. This oracle isn't too bad for me ;-) as I have been raised close to the first and taught at both other universities.

Yes, I agree, there are some differences but - as science is done mainly by individuals or at least local teams - the differences are not so large and this election (for whatever criteria) doesn't have so much meaning.

I believe, however, there will be some self-fulfilling prophecy, as on the longterm run these Universities will attract more excellent people - a point being missed in the current discussion. Yea, yea.

Addendum

Another 8 universitites enter the club: HU Berlin, FU Berlin, Göttingen, Freiburg, Heidelberg, Konstanz, Aachen and Bochum.
