UNCATEGORIZED

BIONIC WOMAN AND ARTIFICAL BLADDERS

3.02.2007

I am always fascinated by surgery – the new Lancet shows the re-inervation map for a complete left arm. There is also an excellent lay article. The paralympics photos are always spectacular and I admire all people who manage their life with an amputation. I am, however, also impressed by advances in tissue engineering which may not seem so spectacular on a first view but are quite important for many children.

CC-BY-NC Science Surf 3.02.2007, access 18.10.2025