POWERPOINT SLIDES IN WORDPRESS

8.03.2007

I have tested several programs for their usefulness of showing Powerpoint slides on the web- some packages create standalone pages only while others have major problems with figures, graphics or transitions (or are quite expensive).

A rather simple method works at least in part – loading a .ppt file in Open Office Impress and exporting it to .swf. The flv player, however, creates a messy display as it doesn't use the full display area.

Another option is to export all pages as  $800 \times 600$  .jpg files and mount them in File Show Maker to a standalone flash film – as seen below in a talk that I have given in 2006:
