Here is an embarrassing, thoughtful, disturbing and funny comment on science by an anonymous commenter on the Beall list of predatory journals and publishers.

The scheme “peer reviewed journal” is completely obsolete.

Even experimental research from many established universities are fake!

The world has changed and the authors must have plain responsibility of their papers.

Who trust anymore experimental research without videos, photos and tests?

The same for theoretical research, if a model is not very clear from the mathematical point of view, no one trust it!

End of an Era Beall!

There is a global downgrade of the world universities and the companies do not publish their discoveries!

fake is everywhere, no one is interested.

If something is good is good! wherever it comes from and it is broadcasted.

It is the new law of internet!!
